

INFORMED CONSENT FOR INDIVIDUAL COUNSELING SERVICES

Deb Hollis, LMHC

Thank you for choosing to initiate counseling with Deb Hollis, LMHC at Crosspoint Counseling Center. We realize that starting counseling is a major decision and you may have many questions. This document is intended to inform you of our policies, state and federal laws and your rights. If you have other questions or concerns, please ask and we will try our best to give you all the information you need.

PROFESSIONAL INFORMATION

Deb graduated from St. Leo College with a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology, and a Master's of Science from Troy University in Counseling in Human Development. She then worked for nine and half years in Community Mental Health Center, then she was employed at the Emerald Coast children's Advocacy Center for the past 15 years. She worked with children and families with trauma issues such as: living in domestic violence environment, physical/sexual abuse, and severe neglect.

Deb participated as a co-presenter at the International Symposium on Child Abuse in 2017 and 2018. She is a veteran of the United States Air Force. She believes in meeting people where they are and walking them through issues as they journey toward healing and recovery.

Deb's primary counseling day/hours are Wednesdays from 1:00-4:00 pm and Fridays from 9:00-3:00.

COUNSELING APPROACH

Deb's counseling approach would be best described as humanistic meaning she concentrates on the individual's nature as oppose to stereotyping. Deb looks at the whole person and assists in growing their positive traits and internal coping skills. Clients are encouraged to exercise their own instincts, wisdom, and faith ultimately leading to self-fulfillment. Meeting the client where they are in development and growth, Deb will implement techniques from different theories and therapies. This creates an individualistic and personally catered treatment.

LENGTH OF THERAPY

The length of therapy is largely dependent on the presenting problems, negotiated goals of therapy, and the rate of improvement. However, most counseling courses will last through about six to eight weekly or bi-monthly sessions. As we near the completion of these six to eight sessions, we can re-examine therapeutic progress and extend the number of sessions if necessary. The counseling client relationship can be terminated if it is deemed ineffective or non-therapeutic. An appropriate referral will be given if the client desires to seek continued services.

CONFIDENTIALITY

The information exchanged in counseling sessions is confidential and will not be shared with other parties except in the following exceptions and only to the extent necessary:

1. When written authorization from the client, parent, or legal guardian has been attained.
2. When the client is seeking reimbursement from an insurance company or a third party, diagnosis, symptoms and treatment plans may be shared with these parties.

(over)

3. When there is an apparent indication of eminent danger to self or others, or when there is an indication of past or present child or elder abuse, appropriate authorities will be notified.
4. When a court order requiring the release of relevant information is filed, only the applicable information and/or records will be supplied.
5. When the complexity of a case requires consultation with other professionals, or recorded sessions are used for teaching or supervision purposes, circumstantial information may be shared but the individual's identity will be protected.
6. When cell phone or e-mail communication is used, this information may be intercepted by third parties. Therefore, these means of communicating should be used restrictively.
